

NovaLang, an example language to test the world of programming language building

Dennis Bejze

Abstract—As part of the study exam in the course 'Compiler Construction' I had to develop my own programming language. This paper describes the language NovaLang, which I developed for this purpose. It consists of the required parts such as a lexer, parser and code generator.